Registration Error Messages

Note: As you are registering, there are registration error messages you may encounter. Please play close attention to what the message is telling you. Below you will find common messages and what you should do if you receive them:

Closed Section: This message means that the section has reached its capacity i.e. the course is full. Look for another section that has seats available or keep checking the section during registration to see if seats open. Remember to check other campuses, including online, for many class offerings.

Co-requisite Message: This message indicates that there is a course that must be taken either prior to an advanced course or at the same time. Your registration must include both courses if you have not taken either one previously.

Field of Study Restriction: This course is restricted to a particular program of study. Financial aid does not cover courses taken outside of your program of study. Please email your advisor if you were advised to take this course.

Maximum Hours Exceeded: This message means that you are attempting to register for more than a full load. Special permission is needed to take more than 15 semester hours in one semester. Please consider time spent outside of class in course preparation before signing up for more than 15 hours.

Prerequisite Message: This message indicates that another course is required prior to taking an advanced course. Read the catalog course description to see the prerequisite courses that must be taken.

Time Conflict Message: You have tried to register for two classes that meet at the same time. Select an alternate course that does not occur at the same time as a course for which you are already registered.

Waitlist Message: Some courses allow students to be added to a waitlist. If you choose to go on a waitlist, please be sure to check your student email daily. This is how you will be notified that you have been added into a class from the waitlist. You cannot register for a course if you are on a waitlist for the same course/different section. Before putting yourself on a waitlist, you should heck for another section of the course with open seats.
